Amy Slattery

Event Master, Systems & Automation Specialist, Business Coach

Amy has a knack for making sense of chaos and setting up systems and structures that are effective, streamlined and simple to use. She knows how to navigate through tricky situations to solve people and task-based problems.

Amy works with clients as a coach, facilitator, mentor and consultant to design and build operational systems and processes that take the pain out of managing a business and building teams. Amy believes that systems and processes should be developed with people in mind and therefore puts an emphasis on everything being user-friendly, lightweight and flexible.

"There's so much power in asking, what would happen if you just asked?"

- Amy Slattery
